DECLARATION
OF INDEPENDENCE
OF THE REPUBLIC OF MOLDOVA

OF THE REPUBLIC OF MOLDOVA

ADOPTED ON 27 AUGUST 1991

THE PARLIAMENT OF THE REPUBLIC OF MOLDOVA, constituted following free and democratic elections,

TAKING into account the millenary history of our people and its uninterrupted statehood within the historical and ethnic area of its national making,

CONSIDERING the acts of dismemberment of its national territory between 1775 and 1812 as being contradictory to the historical right of its people and the judicial statute of the principality of Moldova, acts that are recalled by entire historical evolution and the free will of the population of Bessarabia and Bucovina,

UNDERLINING the existence of Moldovans in Transnistria, a component part of the historical and ethnic territory of our people,

ACKNOWLEDGING that declarations by many parliaments of many states consider the agreement of 23 August 1939, between the government of the USSR and the government of Germany null and void ab initio and demand that the political and judicial consequences of the above be eliminated, a fact revealed also by the declaration of the international conference “The Molotov-Ribbentrop pact and its consequences for Bessarabia”, adopted on 28 June 1991,

POINTING OUT that, without the prior consultation of the population of Bessarabia, Northern Bucovina and Herta District, occupied by force on 28 June 1940 as well as the Moldavian Soviet Socialist Autonomous Republic (Transnistria) established on 12 October 1924, the Supreme Soviet of the USSR, by infringing its constitutional prerogatives, adopted the “Law of the USSR on the establishment of the Moldavian SSR” on 2 August 1940, and its Presidium issued “The Decree concerning the frontiers between the Ukrainian SSR and the Moldavian SSR”, on 4 November 1940, judicial acts whereby, in the absence of any real legal basis, it was attempted to justify the dismantlement of those territories and the incorporation of the new republic into the USSR,

RECALLING that during the recent years the democratic national liberation movement of the population of the Republic of Moldova reaffirmed its aspirations for freedom, independence and national unity, expressed in final documents of the Great National Reunion of Chisinau on 27 August 1989, 16 December 1990 and 27 August 1991, laws and decisions of the Parliament of the Republic of Moldova concerning the laws reintroducing Romanian as the state language and the Latin alphabet on 31 August 1989, the state flag on 27 April 1990, the state emblem on 3 November 1990 and the change of the official name of the republic on 23 May 1991,

TAKING as a basis the declaration concerning State Sovereignty of the Republic of Moldova, adopted by the Parliament on 23 June 1990 and the fact that the population of the Republic of Moldova, in its own right as sovereign people, did not participate at the referendum on the preservation of the USSR, held on 17 March 1991, in spite of the pressures exercised by the state organs of the USSR,

TAKING into account the irreversible processes taking place in Europe and elsewhere in the world calling for democracy, freedom and national unity, for the establishment of the rule of law and the transformation towards a free market,

REAFFIRMING the equal rights of peoples and their right to self-determination, as laid down in the UN Charta, the Helsinki Final Act and the norms of international law pertaining to the above,

CONSIDERING, in view of all of the above, that the time has come for the proclamation of a judicial act, in accordance with the history of our people and moral norms of international law, in the virtue of the right of self-determination of peoples, in the name of the entire population of the Republic of Moldova, and in front of the whole world, that:

PROCLAIMS SOLEMNLY,

THE REPUBLIC OF MOLDOVA IS A SOVEREIGN, INDEPENDENT AND DEMOCRATIC STATE, FREE TO DECIDE ITS PRESENT AND FUTURE, WITHOUT ANY EXTERNAL INTER-

REFERENCE, KEEPING WITH THE IDEALS AND ASPIRATIONS OF THE PEOPLE WITHIN THE HISTORICAL AND ETHNIC AREA OF ITS NATIONAL MAKING.

In its quality as a SOVEREIGN AND INDEPENDENT STATE, THE REPUBLIC OF MOLDOVA, hereby

REQUESTS all states and world governments to recognize the independence of the Republic of Moldova, as proclaimed by the freely elected Parliament of the Republic and is willing to establish political, economic and cultural relations and any other relations of common interest with European countries and all other countries of the world, and is ready to establish diplomatic relations with the above, in accordance with the norms of international law and common practice on the above matter,

REQUESTS the United Nations to admit the Republic of Moldova as a full member of the world organization and its specialized agencies,

DECLARES that is ready to adhere to the Helsinki Final Act and the Paris Charta for a new Europe, equally asking to be admitted to the CSCE and its mechanisms, with equal rights,

REQUESTS the USSR to start negotiations with the government of the Republic of Moldova to terminate the illegal state of occupation, annexation and the withdrawal of Soviet troops from its national territory,

DECIDES that no other laws should be respected on its territory but those that are in conformity with the republic's constitution, laws and all other legal acts adopted by the legally constituted organs of the Republic of Moldova,

GUARANTEES the exercise of social, economic, cultural and political rights for all citizens of the Republic of Moldova, including those of national, ethnic, religious and linguistic groups, in conformity with the provisions of the Helsinki Final Act and documents adopted afterwards, as well as the Paris Charta for a new Europe.

So help us God!

Adopted in Chisinau, by the Parliament of the Republic of Moldova on this day, the 27th of August 1991.

CONSTITUTION OF THE REPUBLIC OF MOLDOVA

CONSTITUTION OF THE REPUBLIC OF MOLDOVA

ADOPTED ON 29 JULY 1994

WE, the plenipotentiary representatives of the people of the Republic of Moldova, members of Parliament,

STARTING from the secular aspirations of the people to live in a sovereign country, expressed by the proclamation of independence of the Republic of Moldova,

Article VIII

Title VII, Final and Transitory Provisions shall be considered a constitutive part of the present Constitution and shall regulate issues dealing with its coming into effect.

CASE LAW OF THE CONSTITUTIONAL COURT OF THE REPUBLIC OF MOLDOVA ON THE BLOC OF CONSTITUTIONALITY

(Judgment of the Constitutional Court no. 36 of 05.12.2013 on interpretation of article 13 para. (1) of the Constitution inter-related with the Preamble of the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence of the Republic of Moldova)

Legal Value of the Declaration of Independence

The provision „aspirations [...] expressed through declaration of independence” in the Preamble of the Constitution makes direct referral to the act through which the independence was proclaimed - the Declaration of Independence of the Republic of Moldova. It is the judicial document by which the independence of the Republic of Moldova has been expressed and where the aspirations that accompanied this process are reflected (§82).

The Court held that, based on the Declaration of Independence, Moldova was established as a sovereign and independent state. The Declaration of Independence is the political and legal foundation of the Republic of Moldova as a sovereign, independent and democratic state. It is the act by which the Republic of Moldova was born. It was based on the Declaration of Independence that Moldova gained recognition from other states, was accepted in the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe on January 31, 1992 and in the United Nations on March 2, 1992 (§47).

The Declaration of Independence is a political and legal document by which a new independent state - the Republic of Moldova was created, thus being the “birth certificate” of the new state, and laying foundations, principles and the underlying values of the state organization of the Republic of Moldova (§49).

In addition to being the “birth certificate” of the new independent state, the Declaration of Independence is the most succinct statement of the constitutional ideas of the Republic of Moldova. In the country’s historical context, this judicial document proclaimed the constitutional values of the new independent state, from which the legitimacy of the power of the ruling parties in Moldova derives (§50).

There is no other document where the constitutional understanding of the founding parents and the national creed would be reflected as clearly as in the Declaration of Independence. The Declaration of Independence, reflecting the fundamental political decisions, is the national consciousness defining the “constitutional identity” of Moldova. Thus, the enumeration in the Declaration of Independence includes the items that were considered essential in defining the constitutional identity of the new state and its people: aspirations for freedom, independence and national unity, linguistic identity, democratization, rule of law, market economy, history, moral and international law norms, European geopolitical orientation, ensuring the social, economic, cultural and political freedoms to all Moldovan citizens, including people belonging to national, ethnic, linguistic and religious groups (§86).

In this context, by reference to the Constitution in its Preamble, the Declaration of Independence has an unquestionable value of a constitutional text [...], as it is the major expression of the will of the people to build and live in a free and independent state, a will that predetermines the need to adjust the Constitution to the ideals, principles and values of the Declaration (§87).

Block of Constitutionality

The Court held that the Declaration of Independence is the primary legal and political foundation of the Constitution. Thus, no provision of the Constitution, reflected in the text of the Declaration of Independence, can violate the limits (provisions) of the Declaration (§88).

Moreover, as the founding act of the Republic of Moldova, the Declaration of Independence is a legal document that cannot be subject to any amendments and / or additions. Thus, the Declaration of Independence has the status of “eternity clause” because it defines the constitutional identity of the political system, the principle of which cannot be changed without destroying this identity (§89).

For this reason, the Court held that the Declaration of Independence is the original, intangible and immutable block of constitutionality (§90).

By Preamble to the Constitution, the Declaration of Independence refers to the Constitution in its entirety [...]. Therefore, any constitutionality control or any interpretation must consider not only the text of the Constitution, but also the constitutional principles in the constitutionality block (§91).

Conflict between Two Fundamental Acts

The Court held that, under article 13 para. (1) of the Constitution, the state language of Moldova is “Moldovan, used based on Latin alphabet” (§106).

On the other hand, the Declaration of Independence uses the term “Romanian” for the official language of the newly created state the Republic of Moldova (§107).

Therefore, the reference to “Romanian” as the official language is a factual situation stipulated in the very text of the Declaration of Independence, which is the founding act of the Republic of Moldova. Regardless of the glonyms used in legislation prior to proclamation of independence, the Declaration of Independence made a clear distinction, expressly opting for the term “Romanian language” (§108).

The principle value of the Declaration of Independence derives from general popular consensus that legitimated it and from its contents defining the new state. This gives the Declaration of Independence, in the constitutional order of the Republic of Moldova, a crossing function [...] in relation to other constitutional provisions (in a manner similar to general principles of the rule of law, fundamental rights and freedoms, justice and political pluralism, etc.), as the core of the block of constitutionality (§118).

Based on a historical and teleological interpretation of the Preamble of the Constitution, the Court held that the Declaration of Independence had been used as the basis for the adoption of the Constitution in 1994 [...] (§120).

Therefore, in application of the principles set out in the Judgment no. 4 of April 22, 2013 (§ § 56, 58, 59), any interpretation of the Constitution is to be operated from the original objectives of the Constitution, which are set out in the Preamble and implicitly in the Declaration of Independence, and from which the text of the Constitution itself derives. Thus, when there are several interpretations, the option according to the Preamble and thus the Declaration of Independence prevails (§122).

Therefore, no legal act, regardless of its power, including the Basic Law, can be inconsistent with the text of the Declaration of Independence. As long as the Republic of Moldova functions based on the same political order as established by the Declaration of Independence on August 27, 1991, the constituent legislature cannot adopt regulations that contradict it. At the same time, if the constituent legislator admitted certain contradictions to the text of the Declaration of Independence in the Basic Law, the text in the Declaration of Independence remains to be the authentic one (§123).

In the light of the above, examining the cumulative effect of the two provisions on the name of the official language, the Court held that a combined interpretation of the Preamble and Article 13 of the Constitution was targeting the uniqueness of the official language, the name of which is given by the primary imperative provision of the Declaration of Independence. Therefore, the Court found that the provision contained in the Declaration of Independence on Romanian language as the official language of the Republic of Moldova prevailed over the rule concerning the Moldovan language contained in Article 13 of the Constitution (§124).
